TO: Industrial Disposal Files #20

SUBJECT: Phone Conversation with Dan McArdle

On February 3, 1977, Johnnie Baker and I returned Dan McArdle's phone call to Roland Dove. The conversation concerned our letter to Industrial Disposal dated January 20, 1977, and their reply dated January 24, 1977. Mr. McArdle stated that the area we saw near the discharge pump was refuse that had been placed there prior to their acquiring the site. He also stated that they salvage the wood pallets and barrels that are dumped in the area.

There is another area near the toll road that Industrial Disposal operates which we did not see. Mr. McArdle referred to it several times and evidently a great deal of their activity is in that area. He wants to take plasterboard and rinsed battery cases as well as the Blaw Knox Foundry sand. Baker told him he would have to make a formal written request to take these materials. We would then review his request and advise him if they would be acceptable or not.

I told him I would contact him the next time I was in the area and we would go over the site.
